

NO ONE IN PUBLIC LIFE WILL BE SAFE FROM SPOTLIGHT

All Are to Be Submitted to Glare of Publicity

RESOLUTION IS MOST SWEEPING

Petty Differences Prevent Passage Yesterday, but It Will Go Through Without Difficulty This Week—Every Legislative "Influence" to Be Examined.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]

Washington, July 5.—Petty differences between the Republican and Progressive leaders prevented the passage to-day of the Henry resolution providing for a blanket investigation

Republican Leader Mann, angered at an amendment providing that investigation of accused members of the House should take precedence, which was offered by Mr. Bryan, the Progressive member from Washington State, raised the point of no quorum, and the matter went over until next Wednesday. House leaders at once sent out notice to absentees to be in their seats Wednesday morning, and there will be no trouble in getting the resolution through at that time.

Resolution Is Sweeping.

As presented to-day in the final form in which it will be passed, the resolution provides for the most sweeping

Investigation of legislative lobby methods ever conducted in the national capital. A blanket clause authorizes the committee of seven, which the Speaker is to appoint, to inquire into every effort that is making or has been made to influence individual action, committee action or action by the House as a whole, in this or previous

An effort was made by Representative Kahn, of California, to include in the scope of the resolution an inquiry into the influences behind the recent attempt to postpone the trial of the Duggs-Caminetti white slave cases, but it was defeated. Referring to these cases in the debate on the resolution, Mr. Kahn accused the Democratic majority of trying to stifle debate when his resolutions were presented. "You cannot avoid laying bare these matters," he said. "You cannot stick your heads in the sand like ostriches and make believe that the country cannot see you."

One striking feature of the resolution is its intent that a special inquiry shall be made of the methods in vogue to influence legislation by the creation of false public sentiment through high priced accelerators. Along these lines, it is proposed to take up the charge that an insidious attempt has been made by the money trust to shape currency legislation through a flood of literature prepared by banking interests, and later distributed through the public printer at public expense. A specific fund raised by a certain group of bankers to carry on this pro-baganda will receive close attention. No effort, it is declared, will be made to reopen by this means the money trust investigation, but newly discovered evidence will be introduced to show the lobbying influences of the trust along the lines indicated. Otherwise, the scope of the investigation is to include the efforts of every organization which has appeared here by representatives to influence legislation in any way. And the investigation, by agreement reached during the debate, is to be wide open.

Levy Cretes Sensation.

A sensational feature of the debate was the charge made by Representative Levy, of New York, that the investigation of the money trust was responsible for the death of J. P. Morgan. Mr. Levy opposed the resolution providing for the new investigation on the ground that the House ought not to dignify the Mulhall charges by taking any official notice of them.

"The money trust probe and the Stanley steet trust investigation," he declared, "served no other purpose than

(Continued on Fourth Page.)

BLAME IS PLACED ON SUFFRAGETTES

Attempt Made to Destroy Methodist Chapel Worth $40,000

London, July 5.—A Methodist chapel in the Welsh seacoast town of Pwllheli, the construction of which recently cost $40,000, was destroyed by fire to-day, and an attempt was made also to burn down the Baptist tabernacle in the same town. This is the fourth case of sacrilege in Northern Wales in a week. As usual, when an incendiary fire occurs nowadays, the militant suffragettes

Another supposed attempt by militant suffragettes to commit an outrage occurred at Bolton, Lancashire, this morning. The caretaker of the new town hall, which cost $150,000, discovered a parcel containing explosives in the letter box. A fuse, which was attached, had been lighted, but had gone

Miss Annie Kenney and Miss Rachel Barrett, the first of whom was undergoing eighteen months' imprisonment and the second nine months' imprisonment for committing malicious damage to property, were released from jail again to-day suffering from effects of a "hunger and thirst strike." Miss Kenney is reported to be very ill.

Historic Church Burns.
Montreal, July 5.—The historic Roman Catholic Church of St. Charles was burned to the ground this afternoon. The church was one of the oldest in the city and contained several valuable paintings. The loss is about $500,000.